The aims of the St Richard Gwyn Catholic High School's RSE policy are in accordance with the school's Mission Statement which expresses the need to develop the full potential of every learner and to value his or her unique contribution to school life.

"Sexuality is an enrichment of the whole person-body, emotion and soul- and manifests its inmost meaning in leading the person to the gift of self in love."

John Paul II

St Richard Gwyn is a Catholic school which serves the Catholic Parishes and the wider Christian and faith Community of Vale of Glamorgan as part of the Catholic education provision of the Archdiocese of Cardiff. We aim to "Provide a happy and secure environment, based on Gospel Values, in which the whole needs of the individual pupil can be served in preparing him or her to take a place in society as a young Catholic." In line with the school mission statement which seeks to encourage members of the SRG community to develop success, build resilience and live Gospel values.

School Mission and Vision

The school is committed to consciously affirming the equal worth of each individual to enhance self-esteem and self confidence in developing individual gifts by:

- Recognising the value of each individual and fostering respect and care for others and their property.
- Positively developing each person's physical, mental, social and emotional health.
- Teaching the Christian faith as taught by the Catholic Church.
- Providing a curriculum with the appropriate learning experiences and challenges for the particular needs of each individual regardless of any personal disadvantages.
- Developing clear school policies that protect individuals and groups from those who would undermine the key values which produce a happy, caring and secure environment.
 At St Richard Gwyn we are inspired by Jesus to lead lives that are purposeful and enable us to fulfil our talents. We care for one another and show mutual respect and love through our relationships with one another. Jesus is invited into our lives. In the Beatitudes, Jesus invites us to lead a full life with him by explaining what makes people blessed or happy. Through this we grow in our understanding of how loving our neighbour enables us to be fulfilled too.

Such fulfilment can only be truly achieved when we have a good relationship with ourselves, recognising our God-given dignity, which enables us to enter into relationships with other people in our lives, which help us grow and flourish, and we respect that everyone is a unique and beautiful part of God's creation. We are all children of God, created equal and called to grow in love for him through the person of Jesus Christ and to spread the Good News through the work of the Holy Spirit. We are gifted with the love of God and the ability to love others. Our sexuality is part of our total self-gift of the heart and we seek to bring the young people in our care to know the beauty, goodness and truth of the Church's teaching about how to lead a fulfilled life, a life of integrity and wholeness of body, spirit and mind as they grow and change from children into young adults.

Procedures, Policy Formation and Consultation Process

- The policy was drawn up by a working party comprising of the Headteacher, one Deputy Headeacher, Chair of Governors, Head of RE, PSE coordinator and the School Chaplain

The school prospectus should contain a statement about RSE teaching and details of where to obtain a full copy of the policy upon request. The Diocesan Director Education/ Director of RE will be sent a copy of the school's RSE policy and it is the duty of the Governing Body to ensure that this is up to date.

Rationale

As a Catholic Secondary school in the Province of Cardiff, Menevia, Wrexham and Herefordshire we use the term Relationship and Sex Education (RSE) as we believe that sex education is set within a wider context of relationship education, which itself is about all aspects of growing a fulfilled and happy life. Sex education is but one dimension of this greater whole. For example;

The defining belief of Christianity is that God took on human form. This endows the human person with an extraordinary dignity that goes beyond that of all other forms of life and shows that humanity alone can embrace this relationship with God. Therefore, our relationship with our own bodies is not casual but infused with the Holy Spirit. Any teaching about love and sexual relationships in school must be rooted in this belief which is expressed in the Church's teaching about relationships, marriage, sex and family life. The Church educates young people as it is part of complete human formation. Education about human love is no less a part of a Catholic school's responsibility than teaching about any other curriculum subject. At St

Richard Gwyn we teach young people about how to form relationships, including understanding loving relationships and acknowledging that young people's first experience of love is in the home. We encourage the young people in our school to recognise that they are all children of God and that each person shares a God given dignity. As they mature, we encourage them to follow the example of Jesus and live lives inspired by the Gospel virtues, enabling them to follow His commandment to "Love your neighbour as yourself" (Mark 12:31). We also encourage young people to know that God's love for humanity is so great, he is waiting to forgive us.

"We are all sinners, but God heals us with an abundance of grace and mercy." (Pope Francis)

This is the basis for all relationships in our school. Teaching about relationships in our schools is supported by Christian virtue teaching as outlined in the Catechism of the Catholic Church and in line with 'Fit for Mission Schools'.

Legal guidelines suggest that relationship and sex education should build on the children's own experiences, be sensitive to the specific domestic contexts the children come from, form attitudes and values towards relationships, develop personal and social skills and increase the knowledge and understanding of each young person as they grow about their relationships and well-being, including sexual health. The Province supports all these aims in educating about relationships and sex education by incorporating them into the wider understanding of human relationships and human formation as reflected in our CBEW and CES Guidance.

Statutory framework

The statutory framework around education about human relationships varies between England and Wales. The relevant documents can be found here:

RSE statutory guidance for Wales:

 https://hwb.gov.wales/curriculum-for-wales/designing-your-curriculum/cross-cuttingthemes-for-designing-your-curriculum/#relationships-and-sexuality-education-(rse):statutory-guidance

The Structure of the RSE curriculum

This RSE curriculum covers KS3, KS4 and KS5 and is based on three core themes within which there will be broad overlap. It is adaptable to the age and ability of the pupils. The three themes are:

Created and loved by God (this explores the individual)

The Christian imperative to love self, made in the image and likeness of God, shows an understanding of the importance of valuing and understanding oneself as the basis for personal relationships.

Created to love others (this explores an individual's relationships with others)

God is love. We are created out of love and for love. The command to love is the basis of all Christian morality.

Created to live in community – local, national & global (this explores the individual's relationships with the wider world)

Human beings are relational by nature and live in the wider community. Through our exchange with others, our mutual service and through dialogue, we attempt to proclaim and extend the Kingdom of God for the good of individuals and the good of society. Each theme covers the core strands of 'Education in Virtue' and 'Religious Understanding' as well as strands which cover the PSE content of the theme. In the academic year 2018-2019 St Albans is delivering a pilot PSE programme - 'The Fertile Heart'.

Virtues and Values

Gospel virtues and values underpin the RSE curriculum. The Christian tradition describes behaviour or habits that lead to happiness, human flourishing and a closer relationship with God as virtues. These virtues are described in the Catechism of the Catholic Church and fall into two groups. The theological virtues of faith, hope and charity (sometimes 'love' is used instead of 'charity') are about developing the habits of being open to the work of the Holy Spirit and developing a deeper relationship with God through living a balanced and good life. The cardinal virtues of practical wisdom (prudence), justice, fortitude and temperance help people develop habits of reason, fairness, emotional resilience and self-mastery. They are human virtues and, as such, are part of the development of people of all faiths or none as they learn how to flourish, thrive and to have a life supported by strong and caring relationships. The cardinal virtues are drawn from the teachings of Plato and Aristotle and are held in common with people of many faiths and secular beliefs. St. Thomas Aquinas attributes the theological virtues as having their foundation in God, they complete the cardinal virtues and are the way people can reach "the abundant life" (John 10:10).

At St Richard Gwyn we live out the Gospel values shared in the Beatitudes, throughout the life of school by staff modelling Gospel values and virtues. Pupils are encouraged to do the same throughout their time at school. Our pupils are people encouraged to be thoughtful and reflective about their attitudes and behaviour towards themselves and others in form period, assemblies, Mass, lessons and through a mentoring programme. All pupils are encouraged to develop self-confidence and a level of self-control and they distinguish right from wrong. They are able to express what they believe about God in an atmosphere that is free from criticism and show love and care for themselves and others.

In addition to the points made above, all pupils and staff are given opportunities to learn how prayer enables them to make space for God in their lives and offers opportunities for reflection and growth. They are able to explain the choices they make with reference to conscience and a moral framework. They have an understanding of how to deepen habits of happiness and fulfilment.

The Aim and Objectives of RSE

The aim of RSE is part of our aim to educate the complete human person. This is expressed in 'Fit for Mission? Schools' (2009) as follows:

The fundamental needs of the human person are the focus of Catholic education – intellectual, physical, emotional, social, and spiritual, and eschatological (Our eternal destiny). These fundamental needs can only be truly fulfilled through a rich and living encounter with the deepest truths about God and the human person. This is why Christ and His Gospel must be the foundation of the educational project of each school and college, because He is 'the perfect Man in whom all human values find their fullest perfection' (Congregation for Catholic Education, The Religious Dimension of Education in a Catholic School). Therefore, the Catholic school or college is called to keep the Gospel whole and alive amongst pupils, families, and staff. RSE should therefore deepen the following areas of understanding:

- To develop self-knowledge, and respect and love of self;
- To invite young people to develop and deepen a loving relationship with God;
- To invite young people to understand that their life has a purpose;
- To invite young people to develop and deepen relationships with each other based on mutual respect and care and to understand this is an expression of God's love;
- To foster an understanding of the teachings of the Catholic Church about how to live a full life, a life of virtue, and the place of human sexuality in living a full life, marriage and parenthood that is appropriate to the stage of maturity of the young people;
- A strong awareness of their own safety and the nature of appropriate consent;
- To have an understanding of the law in England and Wales about Equality and Marriage, appropriate to age and maturity.
- In St Richard Gwyn, we aim to develop attitudes, personal and social skills and knowledge and understanding:
- We will seek to develop attitudes of awe and wonder for the gift and beauty of self, respect for each other as children of God and rejoice in the goodness of God's creation.
- We will foster an atmosphere in school which celebrates the work of the Trinity through the life of the school and its relationship with the Church.
- We will teach children about the beauty of the Church's teaching about love and God's love for them which is shared in the Sacraments.
- We will sensitively share the Church's understanding of the nature of intimacy and the importance of marriage and family life as a way to live in loving relationships with others and with God.
- We will seek to develop attitudes of responsibility towards ourselves and others, recognising the dignity of all.
- We will seek to enable students to understand the choices they make and how they can help or harm themselves and others.
- We will encourage students to learn about expressing their own emotions and being respectful of the emotions and behaviour of others.
- We will encourage the whole school to be like a loving family recognising God as a merciful and generous father as Jesus taught in the Lord's prayer.
- We will encourage everyone in the school to recognise their part in the school family and work together for reconciliation when relationships in the school falter.
- We will encourage everyone in the school to value humility, mercy and compassion and to respond with empathy to the problems of others.

- We will develop students' knowledge of when to say 'no' to behaviours or attitudes that harm their dignity or the dignity of others and to be responsible for managing their own risk.
- We will develop students' experience of what it is to be truly happy so that they begin to understand the difference between happiness and gratification, satisfying the spirit rather than the senses.
- We will teach them the virtue of patience.
- We will teach students about the media and how to make good choices, about what to watch, what games to play, what rules apply, especially when using social media, and that the dignity of all does not just apply to people who are physically seen, it applies to online relationships too.
- We will encourage students to develop a healthy, good moral framework about accessing information online.
- We will encourage students to recognise the influence of peer pressure and the moral integrity required to say "no".
- We will support students when relationships in their lives are challenging and teach them that there are people in school who will listen if they are experiencing changes that make them frightened or uncomfortable.
- We will teach students about the damage that drugs, alcohol and promiscuity do to relationships with the self, as well as others.
- We will teach young people that God is merciful and always waiting for us to be reconciled with him.

Inclusion

At St Richard Gwyn, we identify that young people mature in different ways. Our teaching about relationships and sexuality is respectful of each child's starting point, their faith, culture and background. Lessons are framed by this understanding and young people are encouraged to respect each other in their differences, and develop an approach of dialogue.

This may be followed by an outline of how the school either offers support, now, or would endeavour to offer support to young people who require or request additional needs or support.

Equality

The governing body has wide obligations under the Equalities Act 2010 and will work to ensure that St Richard Gwyn endeavours to do its best for all of the pupils, irrespective of ability (physical and mental), race, ethnicity, nationality, maternity, pregnancy, sex, gender identity or orientation or whether they are looked after children. The school ensures equality, how it is assessed and monitored by application of the existing strategic equality statement.

Programme of study

The Province recommends appropriate resources to its family of schools (See Appendix 1-Tools for Best Practice). These range from ages 3-19 years and provide suggested areas of study and outcomes for the young people it serves.

It is envisaged that this programme will be taught in discreet lessons, in cross-curricular lessons, particularly R.E. and science and fundamentally embedded in the ethos of the school through assemblies, classroom discussions and the centering of all relationships in school on the person of Jesus Christ. The programme of study is based on the understanding of the Church of human nature and human sexuality, and aims to help young people develop their sense of purpose and character. It should be taught as part of a broad and balanced curriculum and will thus allow children to express alternative viewpoints where they hold such views.

Each theme covers the core strands of 'Education in Virtue' and 'Religious Understanding' as well as strands which cover the PSHE content of the theme.

Christian virtue and RSE

Each theme begins with a statement of the virtues which are necessary to living well in relationship with others and these virtues should underpin the teaching but also should emerge as a consequence of it. Virtues are habits which are learned from experience, and are gained through imitation of the same virtues being modelled by those who teach. They express the qualities of character that schools should seek to develop in their pupils, through their exemplification by the whole community of which the pupils are a part. These virtues reflect our Christian tradition but they are also, of course, fundamental human virtues which are universally shared.

Parents

The Church recognises parents as the first educators of their children. Our schools will assist parents in this task, which includes RSE. The role of the school is thus that of assisting and completing (where needed) the work of parents, furnishing children and adolescents with an evaluation of "sexuality as value and task of the whole person, created male and female in the image of God". (Educational Guidance in Human Love (1983) Sacred Congregation for Catholic Education n69).

Children's first experience of relationships and love are in the home. At our schools we seek to work with parents and support them as their children grow and begin to develop their own character as well as experiencing changes in their physical appearance. Parents will be consulted about this policy before it is ratified by the governing body.

They will be consulted at every stage of the development of the RSE programme, as well as during the process of monitoring, review and evaluation. They will be able to view the resources used by the school in the RSE programme. Our aim is that, at the end of the consultation process, every parent and carer will have full confidence in the school's RSE programme to meet their child's needs.

Parents are informed of their right to withdraw their children from RSE lessons, or request their withdrawal, where such a right exists. Where such a right no longer exists (as under the provisions of the 'Curriculum for Wales'), particular care has been taken to ensure that dialogue and involvement of parents is a priority concern of the school.

Parental information about RSE is contained in the school prospectus and the school website. However, at times, areas of particular sensitivity, such as puberty, will benefit from additional parental support and at such times, letters will be sent home and parents may be invited into school to discuss the content of RSE lessons.

Teaching RSE

The Chair of Governors, Head of RE and The Assistant headteacher responsible for the RSE co-ordinator will monitor the programme. The programme will be delivered by Form tutors during a designated lesson and by RE and Science staff. There will also be outside agencies as a part of the PSE programmer to deliver aspects of the RSE curriculum

According to the directive from the Archdiocese the school will use a combination of resources from the TenTen and Fertile Heart Programmes.

The TenTen resources will be used during designated RSE lessons for y9,10 &11 and for units of work for y7 &Y8, which will be taught through the Skills curriculum.

The Fertile Heart resources will be used during RE lessons for all year groups.

Such visitors will be guided to read the protocol for visitors at St Richard Gwyn and will agree in writing to follow the instructions. The appropriate 'protocol' available on the CES website will be used for this purpose.

All staff are involved in fostering attitudes, living Gospel virtues and shaping behaviour based on a Christian understanding of how to lead a good life. Staff are called to be role models of the school's ethos in their relationships with other staff members, their conduct towards parents and their care for the children in the school. Staff who are not Catholic themselves must conduct their behaviour in school in accordance with the vision and mission of the school.

Supporting children and young people deemed to be at risk

The Governing Body desires that RSE lessons take place in a positive framework, where students experience a growing appreciation for their well-being, and that of others, and a deeper understanding that the Church teaches a path of wholeness of mind, body and spirit. Like all other subjects, RSE always needs to be taught in a differentiated manner appropriate to the maturity of the children. It needs to be framed so that the young people who are participating know that there is pastoral support if any of the issues discussed make them feel the need to talk further or share confidential information. Part of this is creating an atmosphere where questions can be asked openly, knowing that their questions will be answered and knowing that these questions will not be judged negatively by staff or other students. It is vital, therefore, that time is invested in creating this framework of mutual trust and care, whilst respecting personal information. The RSE co-ordinator must be given access to support and training to facilitate teachers to enable such discussions by creating carefully negotiated ground rules and distancing strategies.

The following guidance for dealing with questions in RSE will be adhered to:

Teachers should establish clear parameters of what is appropriate and inappropriate in a whole class setting. Many teachers are concerned about responding to unexpected questions or comments from pupils in a whole-class situation. Having a set of ground rules should reduce the chances of this happening but teachers will need support and training so that they are prepared for the unexpected. For example:

- If a question is too personal, the teacher should remind the pupil of the ground rules. If the pupil needs further support, the teacher can refer her or him to the appropriate person, such as a school counsellor, school nurse, helpline, or an outside agency or service;
- If a teacher doesn't know the answer to a question, it is important to acknowledge this, and to suggest that the pupil or teacher or both together research the question later;

- If a question is too explicit, feels too old for a pupil, is inappropriate for the whole class, or raises concerns about sexual abuse, the teacher should acknowledge it and promise to attend to it later on an individual basis. In this way, the pupil will feel they have been treated with respect, but the rest of the class will not have to listen to personal experience or inappropriate information. To maintain trust and respect the teacher must remember to talk with the pupil later; and
- If a teacher is concerned that a pupil is at risk of sexual abuse, they should follow the school's child protection procedures.

(DfE Sex and Relationships Guidance, 4.5 'Dealing with questions' 0116/2000) Questions asked by students that are a cause for concern for the teacher, for example because of their explicit or graphic content, should be addressed in accordance with the school's safeguarding policy and confidentiality procedures. All safeguarding information is securely stored in the DSO office.

The school will ensure that this policy is available for all staff, governors, parents and students and the confidential nature of how to obtain advice and guidance as a result of any issues or questions that may arise.

Students will be encouraged to talk to their parents or carers about issues and questions that arise as part of the programme. It will be made clear to all that unconditional confidentiality cannot be guaranteed where illegal or abusive concerns come to light and these will be dealt with under the terms of the relevant policies. Child protection and safeguarding policy, Good behaviour policy, substance misuse policy, Strategic equality policy and ALN policy.

Appendix 1 TOOLS FOR BEST PRACTICE USE OF MATERIALS AND SELECTION OF RESOURCES

A confident, competent and well-trained teacher with the skills to deliver RSE as part of a planned cross-curricular approach will be a school's best resource! Other resources which have been chosen to meet specific needs can enrich and support learning. Schools will choose the materials and resources that they think will best suit the needs of their pupils in teaching and learning about RSE. Materials used in schools must be in accordance with the Church's teaching, with the PSE/PSHE framework and with the law.

This document provides a list of authorised and recommended resources to help schools with this. It will be up to the individual school, determined by any Diocesan recommendations, its policy for RSE and the wishes of the governing body, to ensure that the resources to be used are chosen wisely. Further guidance, support and training is available from the respective Diocesan Directors of Education/ RE (schools).

No commercially available resource will be a perfect 'fit' for every school, so that a degree of adaptation will always be required. On occasion, this may mean that a school may wish to use a resource not on the list of Diocesan-recommended resources below. In this case, the school will contact the office of the Diocesan Director of Education/RE (schools) for advice before a decision is made, and will communicate the advice given to those within the school determining which resource is to be used. This process is designed to ensure that schools are flexible enough to use and adapt resources as appropriate for their context, while also adhering to Diocesan policies provided in order to guarantee that what is taught in RSE harmonises with Church teaching.

Schools must ensure that, whatever resource is used, pupils are protected from teaching and materials which are inappropriate, bearing in mind the development, maturity and cultural background of pupils and the school's Catholic ethos.

Governors and headteachers should discuss with parents and take on board any concerns raised, both on materials which are offered to schools and especially on sensitive material to be used in the classroom. Schools will also want to ensure that children and young people are protected from accessing unsuitable materials on the internet. The following checklist for the selection of teaching materials/resources is to be used:

- Is the resource in accordance with the moral teaching of the Catholic Church?
- Does the resource promote a 'positive and prudent' approach to RSE
- Is the resource consistent with the vision and values set out in the school's RSE policy?
- Are the facts given accurate and up-to-date?
- Is the material appropriate to children and young peoples' age and stage of development and cultural background e.g. language, content, pupils with SEN.
- Are the materials user-friendly and easily accessible for pupils and teachers?
- Are teachers familiar with resources used and have they received appropriate training?
- Is there a range of types of resource being used e.g. DVD, games, models, audio and visual and do they encourage participatory learning?
- Does the resource show positive images of a range of children and young people and is it inclusive?
- Does the resource fit into a planned and developmental programme of RSE?
- Will the resource be used in its entirety or will it be adapted or used selectively?
- Are parents and carers familiar with and have they been consulted about resources in use?
- Have resources been evaluated by children and young people and feedback acted upon?
